CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS

OF THE

Medico-Legal Society of New York.

CONSTITUTION.

Article I.

This Association shall be known as the New York Medico-Legal Society.

Article II.

Its object shall be the advancement of the Science of Medical Jurisprudence.

Article III.—Amended.

There shall be three classes of members, viz.: Resident, Corresponding and Honorary. Such persons only as are in good standing in either the Medical or Legal profession, chemists, scientists and men of eminence in letters, if recommended by the Executive Committee, shall be eligible to Resident membership. Any resident or non-resident person who shall contribute an accepted manuscript paper to the Society, and shall be recommended by the Executive Committee, shall be eligible to Resident or Corresponding membership. Physicians and Lawyers of recognized eminence in their respective professions, whether resident or non-resident, shall be eligible to Honorary membership, if recommended by the Executive Committee; but the number of Honorary members shall be limited to twenty, and shall be equally divided between the two professions of Medicine and Law.

Article IV.

Resident members only shall be eligible to office and entitled to vote; all other rights and privileges shall be equally enjoyed.

Article V.

The officers shall be a President, two Vice-Presidents, styled First and Second; Recording Secretary, Assistant Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary, Treasurer, Librarian, Curator and Pathologist, and Chemist.

Article VI.

The President, or in his absence the Vice-Presidents, in their order, or in their absence a chairman pro tempore, shall preside and perform such other acts as are customary for presiding officers. The Recording Secretary shall keep the minutes of the proceedings of the meetings of the Society and of the Executive Committee; notify officers and members of committees of their elections or appointments, and members-elect of their election; certify official acts, and procure and sign, with the President, certificates of membership. The Assistant Recording Secretary shall keep a list of the resident members, issue the notices of the meetings, and, in the absence of the Secretary, perform his duties. The Corresponding Secretary shall conduct all the correspondence of the Society, except that with resident members. The Treasurer shall have power to employ persons at the expense of the Society, to collect dues; shall have charge of all the money belonging to the Society, pay all its expenses by and with consent and approval of the Executive Committee; and shall present an account of the financial condition of the Society, at its anniversary meetings, together with such suggestions for assessments and further expenditures as he may deem proper. The Librarian shall preserve and hold accessible to the members of the Society, all its written or printed contributions. The Curator shall, when he may deem it necessary, preserve, at the expense of the Society, pathological specimens offered to it, and prepare them for exhibition; and he shall subsequently take such measures as the Executive Committee may approve, to permanently preserve specimens possessing medico-legal value.

Article VII.

The officers of the Society shall constitute an Executive Committee, to whom shall be referred all affairs of business, except those prescribed for the Trustees by the laws of the State. Ex-Presidents of the Society shall be ex-officio members of the Executive Committee.

Article VIII.

Proposed amendments to this Constitution shall be made in writing at a stated meeting, and referred to the Executive Committee, who shall report upon them within three months. If approved by the committee, two-thirds of all the votes cast at a stated meeting shall be sufficient for the adoption of the amendments.

BY-LAWS.

Article I.

Section 1. The stated meetings of the Society shall be held on the fourth Thursday of every month, unless otherwise ordered by the Society, and special meetings at the time fixed by vote of the Society.

Sect. 2. Stated meetings shall begin at 8 P. M., or as soon thereafter as a quorum is assembled, and special meetings at the hour designated in their order.

Sect. 3. Ten resident members shall constitute a quorum for business.

Sect. 4. Five members of the Executive Committee shall constitute a quorum.

Article II.

admission of members.

Section 1. The names of candidates shall first be presented to the Executive Committee. If reported upon favorably by said committee, they shall be balloted for at the time the report is made, or at some subsequent meeting. Two-thirds of the votes cast shall be necessary for an election.

Sect. 2 Every resident member-elect shall sign the Constitution within three months after his election, and, in default thereof, said election shall be deemed void, unless a satisfactory excuse be given.

Article III.

Section 1. Each resident member shall pay an initiation fee of five dollars, which, with signing the Constitution, shall entitle him to a certificate of membership.

Sect. 2. There shall be an annual assessment of two dollars, unless otherwise regulated by the Society. But any member may commute such annual assessment by the payment of twenty-five dollars at one time, which excuses him from annual assessments for life, though he shall still be liable for his quota as a member for any extraordinary assessment the Society may think proper to order.

Sect. 3. Any resident member who shall neglect to pay his dues or assessments for six months shall be notified of the fact by the Treasurer; and should he for three months after such notice neglect or refuse to pay, his name may be stricken from the roll of members, at the discretion of the Finance Committee, which shall consist of the President, Recording Secretary and Treasurer, to whom all questions of indebtedness to the Society shall be referred.

Sect. 4. The ethical rules of the Society shall be the same as those governing the medical profession generally, and those adopted by the Legal Society of New York. The charges against members shall be made in writing to the Executive Committee, who, after due examination into such charges, may acquit, admonish, suspend or expel the accused from the Society, as they may think proper.

Article IV.

All papers read before the Society shall be referred to the Publishing Committee, consisting of the President, Recording Secretary and Librarian.

Article V.

The annual election of officers shall be held on the fourth Thursday of October, the nominations having been made at the preceding meeting, and announced in the notices for the anniversary meeting.

Vacancies may be filled at any time by an especial election, the nominations to fill them having been made and announced in the same manner as required for the annual elections.

Article VI.

order of business.

At the meetings the following shall be the order of business:

1. Reading minutes of preceding meeting.
2. Report of autopsies and exhibition of specimens.
3. Report of Special Committees.
4. Report of Executive Committee, and election of proposed members.
5. Paper of the evening, and discussion thereon; but, at the anniversary meeting, election of officers.
6. New or unfinished business.

Article VII.

The report of autopsies and presentation of specimens shall be as brief as possible. The language of the reporter or exhibitor shall be free from technicalities, and made intelligible for non-medical members.

Article VIII.

These By-laws may be suspended or amended. Two-thirds of all the votes cast at a stated meeting shall be sufficient to suspend them. For their amendment the same rule and same vote shall be required as for amendments of the Constitution.

This Society was organized in 1868, under a charter from the State of New York.

Its objects and plans are for the advancement of the science of Medical Jurisprudence, by the collection, and preservation, and diffusion of useful knowledge in that science; and it promises to rank as one of the most useful and efficient of institutions.

Among the measures at present contemplated, or in operation by the Society, are the following:

1. A collection of all standard and authentic works and books of reference, and especially in the English, French, and German languages, relating to Medical Jurisprudence, to be deposited and kept for public use, under proper regulations.

2. Stated meetings which are held on the fourth Thursday of every month (June, July and August excepted), for the reading and discussion of original papers, reports of autopsies and exhibition of specimens connected with Medical Jurisprudence, conversational discussions, personal experiences, &c.; and special meetings when ordered. These meetings are practically open and free to the public.

3. The Society's proceedings are published periodically, and are furnished to all its members, and sent in exchange to kindred institutions in all countries. They contain, at length, most of the papers read before the Society, and are, in some instances, illustrated by charts, drawings, and engravings.

4. Correspondence with scientific and professional gentlemen and others calculated to increase the extent and usefulness of the knowledge of Medical Jurisprudence.

5. Aiding and assisting courts when requested in elicting the truth in questions arising in Medical Jurisprudence.

Contributions in aid of these several projects will be thankfully received and acknowledged; also, specimens, charts, drawings, engravings, pamphlets, and works of reference, reports of trials, inquests, and medical cases, and papers, and communications, and recent and interesting information on topics of interest to the Society from all parts of the world, as well as means to promote the objects of the Society.

Library of Medical Jurisprudence.

On assuming, the Chair of the Medico-Legal Society, November, 1872, Mr. Clark Bell suggested and urged the foundation of a Library on Medical Jurisprudence by the Society in his inaugural address

At the regular meeting of the Society, held January 6th, 1873, on the unanimous recommendation of Executive Committee, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That each member be earnestly requested to contribute one or more bound volumes relating to Medical Jurisprudence to the library of this Society, in each year."

On motion the Chair announced as a Committee, to whom was referred so much of the inaugural address of the President as related to the foundation of a library, the following gentlemen: R S Guernsey, Stephen Rogers, M. D, George H. Yeaman, David Dudley Field, Wm A. Hammond, M. D, John C. Peters, M. D.

Report of Library Committee:

The following Report of the Library Committee was made to the Medico-Legal Society:

To the Medico-Legal Society:

Gentlemen: The Select Committee, to whom was referred so much of the inaugural address of the President as related to founding a complete Library of edical Jurisprudence for the use of this Society, and to devise ways and means for that purpose, beg leave to report, that the want of a complete and unique library in this city, which shall contain every accessible work upon Medical Jurisprudence, is one felt and recognized by both professions of law and medicine.

It is, beyond a question, the duty of the Society to meet this great and pressing want; and it is, in the opinion of your Committee, within its power to do so, and at a very early day. The public libraries of this city do not at all meet, nor are they likely to provide for, this daily increasing need of the professions, and do not contain in their catalogues even a limited number of works upon this most important subject. If we should select only such volumes as are published in the English, French and German languages, it would not, it is thought, require more than 1,500 volumes, exclusive of pamphlets, to embrace them all.

The value of such a collection cannot well be over-estimated by the two professions. Your Committee recommended to the Executive Committee the adoption of a resolution calling upon each member of the Society to contribute one bound volume to the library, which recommendation was unanimously approved by the Society at a recent general meetinfi, and contributions from the members are now being made of bound volumes, in pursuance of this general resolve upon that subject The number of volumes necessary to make the library perfect and complete is relatively so small that, in the judgment of your Committee, it is the duty of the Society to take immediate steps to complete and equip the library, and at once. We recommend that a general appeal be made to the members to subscribe a sufficient sum to complete this library We also recommend that the Committee be authorized to promise such persons as contribute to this library who are not members of this Society the free use of the library.

Your Committee beg to call the earnest and immediate attention of members to the action of the Society in regard to the contribution of volumes, and ask that these donations be at once made and sent to Mr. Clark Bell, at his office, No. 120 Broadway, N. Y, who has consented temporarily to furnish shelves for such volumes as may be contributed, until more complete and proper arrangements can be made for the permanent location of the library. Your Committee are preparing complete lists of all accessible volumes on these subjects for the use of members in selecting volumes for contributions It is suggested by your Committee that such members as prefer not to be embarrassed by the selection of a volume, in compliance with the general resolution, may send such sum of money as they choose to the President, Mr. Clark Bell, who has consented in each such case to take charge of the selection of the volume, and place it to the credit of the person making the contribution.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed), R. S. Guernsey,
Stephen Rogers, M. D.,
George H. Yeaman,
David Dudley Field,
William A. Hammond, M D.,
John C. Peters, M. D,
Committee.
